BENCHMADE® HOOK APPLICATIONS

General Troop/Safety

Individual troops use it as a strap cutter to help egress from vehicles after roll-overs, I.E.D.s, etc. They use it to cut seat belts, uniforms, and any other gear that gets hooked up inside a vehicle. Also useful for cargo webbing, shrink wrap, cardboard boxes etc.

Medical

Corpsmen use it to remove clothing, boots, vests and gear from wounded Marines for initial evaluation and immediate treatment of injuries. Also ideal for cutting bandaging, medical tubing, casts, etc.

Airborne

Airborne use it as a cut-away tool during parachute malfunctions or when they have a line-over during a jump.

Military Police

MPs, or anyone who has detainees, use it as a tool to remove flex-cuffs. It provides a safe alternative to using a fixed blade or folding knife, which could cut the detainee or be taken and used as a weapon against the MP.

INITIAL CUTTING FORCE

Initial cut force required by Benchmade was less than a quarter of the competition. It may not seem like much...unless your arm is broken.

EDGE RETENTION

Overall edge retention highlights that even after 500+ cuts, the Benchmade was still cutting noticeably easier than the competition.

CAPABILITY TESTING

LAYERS OF WEBBING	PULL FORCE (LBS.)
	BENCHMADE	COMPETITION
1 LAYER	3.25	20.25
2 LAYERS	7.25	27.00
3 LAYERS	9.50	80.00
4 LAYERS	18.25	100.00
5 LAYERS	25.00	DNF

Capability testing caused the competition to fail at 5-layers of webbing while the Benchmade required only moderate additional force. This issue was also exposed when test cutting military boots for foot extraction.
